

Fall Alarm

SureSafe's fall alarm pendants are the next generation in personal alarms for the elderly.

Fall alarms activate automatically when a fall is detected, there is no need to press the button. This can be vital when the wearer either loses consciousness, or they are too weak to manually press the pendant e.g. following a stroke or heart attack. The device is worn instead of a traditional pendant, there is no need to wear both.

Using the latest technology, fall alerts mean that the wearer no longer needs to press the pendant button to get the help they need. Considering that falls that lead to the loss of consciousness are likely to be the most serious. Fall alarms can be the difference between help arriving fast, or not arriving until after the wearer regains consciousness, strength and awareness.

Fall Detection Alarms

Fall alarm technology varies according to the device used. The most advanced fall alarm pendants use sensors to detect changes in air pressure and air speed. Other devices use 'tilt switch' technology that measure when the pendant is not in a vertical position for an extended period of time – something that would happen if the wearer was lying on the floor after a fall.

High quality fall alarm devices will include a function that allows the wearer to cancel the alarm call if the pendant incorrectly detects a fall – otherwise known as a false alarm.
